CONCORD CEMETERY

Smith Township, Whitley County, Indiana

Concord Cemetery, in somewhat overgrown condition, stands at the corner of the Johnson Road and 150N in section 34.

The History of Whitley County, 1907, states: "The first meeting house in the township and also the first in the county was erected at Concord, it being a log building which served the purpose of religious meetings until about 1851 or 1852. A frame building was at that time erected under the guidance and energy of David F. Striker.

In 1848 the United Brethren erected a church house on the southwest corner of Concord. Both of the houses of worship at Concord were used for the purpose for which they were built for many years, but they were finally abandoned." P. 290

ROUSSEAU-PENCE CEMETERY

Smith Township, Whitley County, Indiana

Rousseau- Pence Cemetery is located off 350E just north of the Burd Road. The cemetery cannot be seen from the road. Access to it is achieved by walking approximately 1/8 mile through a field. It can be found along the edge of the woods near Blue River in section 19.

Joseph J. Pence wrote in History of Whitley County, 1907: "Father gave half an acre of land for a cemetery, and Rousseau's child was the first burial and it went by the name of Rousseau's graveyard. My brother Absalom is buried there. There were about thirty persons buried there, Benjamin Harter being the last, about twenty years ago." P. 291
